Board Memo 112-2023: Update on Tropical Storm Idalia Impacting North Carolina

Executive Board,

NAPS has received an update on Tropical Storm Idalia impacting North Carolina. Please see below.

Below is the 8/31/23 – Thursday, 5:00 AM EST forecast maps for Tropical Storm Idalia showing the forecast track and rainfall.

The excel spreadsheet lists all facilities that fall within the area forecasted to experience tropical storm force winds (i.e. greater than 39 mph).

At 500 AM EDT (0900 UTC), the center of Tropical Storm Idalia was located 45 miles SSW of Wilmington, North Carolina. Idalia is moving toward the east-northeast near 21 mph, and this general motion is expected to continue this morning. An eastward to east-southeastward motion is forecast to begin later today and continue through Saturday.

On the forecast track, the center of Idalia will just offshore of the coast of North Carolina today. Idalia will then move over the western Atlantic into the weekend.

Maximum sustained winds are near 60 mph with higher gusts. Little change in strength is expected today, but some gradual weakening could occur Friday and Saturday.

Tropical-storm-force winds extend outward up to 185 miles from the center.

The estimated minimum central pressure is 991 mb.

Also, below is the excessive rainfall outlook map for Tropical Storm Idalia with corresponding excel spreadsheet of post offices.

Network facilities falling within High, Moderate and Slight risks of flash flooding are labeled. Attached Excel file contains full list of postal facilities and their risk of flash flooding.
