T’d-Off About T-Time

Here we go again: More phone calls received at NAPS Headquarters and discussions at NAPS state conventions about EAS special-exempt employees being told they will not be paid for working T-time. I wrote a Postal Supervisor article in November 2016 explaining the Postal Service policy about how special-exempt EAS employees are to be compensated when working more than 8.5 hours in a given day. It’s officially called “additional straight-time pay,” but it’s also known as T-time.

In my November article, I referenced USPS Handbook F-401, August 2000, pages 55-56, which states special-exempt employees are to receive additional straight-time pay for all hours worked in excess of 8.5 in a day. I further referenced the USPS Employee and Labor Relations Manual (ELM), Section 434.143, “Eligibility for FLSA-Exempt EAS Additional Pay,” which reads: “FLSA special-exempt employees in EAS-18 positions and below are eligible for EAS additional pay if authorized to work over 8.5 hours on a scheduled day or any hours on a nonscheduled day, even while on a temporary assignment such as to an OIC position. When authorized work exceeds 8.5 hours on a scheduled day, EAS additional pay is received for the first half hour as well as for the authorized work over 8.5 hours.”

Unfortunately, there is a new tactic being used by some managers to avoid paying T-time. They are trying to blame Postal Service Headquarters for this. These managers claim USPS Headquarters has mandated no more T-time and, therefore, supervisors who work more than 8.5 hours in a given day won’t be paid for those hours. Wrong! NAPS has received no official communication from Postal Headquarters that it no longer will pay or authorize T-time.

Another tactic used by some managers is to randomly change a supervisor’s schedule to take a two-hour lunch when there is no operational need for such a permanent change. The change is made only to cheat EAS employees from receiving T-time. This two-hour lunch scam is wrong, too.

In my opinion, a real postal leader never would make up a false USPS Headquarters mandate or condone the manipulation of an EAS employee’s schedule just to avoid paying T-time. That is not leadership, postal or otherwise. You probably can tell I am really getting t’d-off about these current T-time tactics.

Let’s be honest, T-time is a cost of doing business. Some postal leaders have recognized this fact and have taken steps to approve the time when needed. Others monitor T-time usage and legitimately manage to reduce it. In some cases, there are local directives that an office may not use EAS T-time without prior approval.

Depending on where you work, this approval may come from the district manager; manager, Post Office Operations (MPOO); or postmaster. If that is the postal leader’s instruction, then so be it. NAPS has no issue with that directive as long as EAS employees are not directed to work off the clock or denied payment for T-time that is legitimately earned.

Therefore, when T-time is not approved, my advice to those respective special-exempt employees is to end your tour at eight hours and leave the office for the rest of the day. Go home, go bowling, go to Dairy Queen—just go.

If special-exempt EAS employees are instructed to continue working past their regular schedule, they should swipe their timecards. If your manager is playing “keep away” with your timecard, then complete a PS Form 1260 for all hours worked on that given day. Give the original 1260 to your manager to enter into TACS, but keep a copy for your records.

If you notice in your next paycheck you did not get properly paid for working those additional hours, inform your manager to make a pay adjustment. If they refuse, file a grievance in accordance with ELM 650 to receive your just compensation.

It is very simple. If you are not approved to work T-time, then end your tour in eight hours. However, have the professional courtesy to provide your manager with as much advance notice of what workload remains. Let your manager make the final decision if they want you to stay on the clock and pay you the.

like to think of myself as having eclectic taste in music. My kids, though, call it old. Anyway, in 1965, the Four Tops released a hit song titled, “The Same Old Song.” This song came to mind recently at a consultative meeting.

I periodically peruse the USPS OIG website and read some of the completed audits that may impact or be of interest to NAPS members. During my latest website visit, I reviewed NO-AR-18-004, Mail Processing Facilities Staffing. This audit had to do with the application of the Function 1 (F1) Scheduler. The objective was to determine if USPS mail processing facilities are optimally staffed based on use of the F1 Scheduler.

It was no surprise to me that the audit found issues with this program. I could base that on the unsolicited reviews I have received as I traveled around the country representing our association. I heard from some senior leadership about how this process was failing the goals of the USPS. New process or the same old song?

I had heard, and the USPS OIG audit confirmed, that this program was not being followed locally. The narrative on the local level would point to the process’s failure to adequately provide for staffing USPS functions.

This audit report seemed to point toward little to no implementation of the F1 Scheduler results. A more significant point for NAPS was the audit found that, regardless if a plant used greater or fewer resources than identified in the F1 Scheduler, overtime usage still was in double digits—above 10 percent—and penalty overtime was used at nearly the same levels.

Due to the poor results identified by the OIG in the audit, NAPS felt it was necessary to engage USPS Headquarters leadership regarding the useful purpose of this tool. At the May 23, 2018, consultative, NAPS requested the USPS discontinue its use of flawed tools and return to a 22:1 ratio (excluding MDO ratio) for F1 mail processing plants. Knowing this ratio may not have been perfect either, it was, I heard, considered adequate.

The response received from Headquarters leadership was their predictable defense of a process. We have heard it before when voicing concerns about other process issues, such as Article 8 grievances and scanning integrity.

I must admit I had not listened to that tune in a while. Clearly, though, it was the same old song: “It’s management’s fault.” There was, however, a new verse: “The USPS OIG reporting is suspect.”

Resident Officer Candidates Announced

At the 2010 NAPS National Convention, Resolution #57 was passed:

“WHEREAS, The Postal Supervisor is a monthly publication paid for by members’ dues, and

“WHEREAS, For the first time in the history of NAPS, officially announced resident officer candidates are being allowed to place election advertisements in The Postal Supervisor, and

“WHEREAS, The officially announced resident officer candidates are being required to purchase these advertisements, therefore be it

“RESOLVED, For the good of the membership, that NAPS put in print in The Postal Supervisor, the currently announced candidates for the three national officers, in three issues before the national convention.”

These NAPS members, listed alphabetically, have announced their candidacies for the three resident officer positions:

President: Toni Coleman Scruggs, Brian J. Wagner
Executive Vice President: Ivan D. Butts
Secretary/Treasurer: Chuck Mulidore
A forum is defined as a place, meeting or medium where ideas and views on a particular issue can be exchanged. That definition absolutely describes the context of the National Postal Forum I had the privilege of attending recently in San Antonio, TX. The theme of the event was “Informed Customers,” with an emphasis from the Postal Service on informed visibility and how this can help mailers be more efficient and make mail more visible.

The Postal Service is investing heavily in technology that allows mail to be trackable at all stages, from acceptance to delivery. This allows mailers to better leverage their mailings to customers and allows customers to be more engaged with the mailing and shipping process. This technology has the potential to reap huge benefits for the Postal Service as customers see the value in mail and use the USPS as their shipper of choice in the ever-expanding package marketplace.

The application of these scanning processes already has enveloped our workplace. This includes bundle visibility scans in plants to arrival and departure scans in transportation, to acceptance scanning in post offices and delivery scans made by postal carriers. Clearly, the future of the Postal Service lies in scanning technology—active scanning, as well as more passive scanning, using geofencing technology and GPS in the future.

We have seen this revolution unfolding and support this effort 100 percent. No one wants to see a more technologically advanced Postal Service than NAPS members. We see the long-term stability of the Postal Service rooted in the fundamental principle that service keeps customers in the mail. Without service that is driven by technology, the USPS would be left behind as a relic of a bygone era. We cannot allow that to happen.

However, one piece of the scanning visibility puzzle that was not discussed at the Postal Forum was the unchanging need for EAS employees to be hands-on in this process. Even with all the technology driving all the indicators, this still is a people business. Treating people right, giving them the freedom to grow and test their limits, caring about them, providing them with opportunities for upward mobility and giving them regular pay increases that recognize the value of their contributions to the USPS are essential in developing the future of this company.

Even when all the technological platforms are installed and the expectations are set, at the end of the day there will have to be an EAS employee who drives the process in the plants and the Customer Service delivery units. Technology can get the mail to a plant faster or to a post office more visibly, but if craft employees don’t come to work or the equipment is malfunctioning, an EAS employee will make the decisions that eventually will get the mail home and delivered in a timely manner.

That’s what we do. We stand in the breach to make sure service is provided, even when the best-laid plans collapse. We manage, shift, realign, rethink and follow through until the mail finds its way to its destination.

So, let’s hope the omission of this key piece of bundle visibility was an oversight. Personally, I think an integral part of any presentation to mailers should illustrate that the Postal Service has an outstanding managerial workforce that will implement the scanning process on behalf of its customers—no matter the obstacles that inevitably crop up daily.

After all, at the end of the day, that’s what we do at the U.S. Postal Service. We are EAS employees and we make it work.

Agenda Item #1

NAPS brought back to the table Agenda Item #1 from the Feb. 14 consultative for an update:

NAPS requested an OCC code review for consideration of the Supervisor Differential Adjustment (SDA) for the following EAS positions assigned to the Stamp Fulfillment Services Center (SFSC):

- OCC Code 2355-0011, EAS-17 Supervisor, Maintenance Operations Support (SFS). Currently, this SFSC EAS employee supervises five PS-10 ETs, 10 PS-4 Labor/custodians and one PS-7 MOS clerk.
- OCC Code 2375-0015, EAS-17 Supervisor, Order Processing (SFS). Currently, this SFSC EAS employee supervises one PS-7 Customer Service clerk, one PS-6 general clerk and 17 PS-6 Stamp Fulfillment Services clerks.

NAPS requested the salaries for the EAS positions with OCC codes 2355-0011 and 2375-0015 be corrected and updated in ELM 412.12b. Also asked was whether the USPS authorizes the SDA for work that has been and is being performed by these two EAS positions.

These positions are being reviewed by USPS Headquarters Compensation. NAPS will be informed of the Postal Service’s decision.

The Postal Service’s latest response: The Supervisor, Maintenance Operations Support (SFS), and Supervisor, Order Processing (SFS), will be included within the position group “All other Eligible” of the SDA, effective May 12, 2018. Retroactive pay adjustments are not applicable when positions are added to or removed from the SDA chart.

Agenda Item #2

NAPS Headquarters has been made aware that, currently, the USPS requires virtually everyone who manages other employees to take the six-module Uniformed Services Employment and Reemployment Rights Act (USERRA) training. NAPS members in the field report this course is very well-written and prepared. However, there is far too much information to be a practical course for managers.

This training acknowledges the complexity of administering the process in its many instructions to call Human Resources (HR) before making any decision. The course also warns the participant in the first module that bad decisions can incur significant cost, embarrassment and inconvenience to the USPS. Module 1 goes into a vast and scary list of consequences if the respondent answered incorrectly.

This LMS course clearly and strongly blames EAS employees for all the trickle-down consequences of poor decisions made by a non-professional HR specialist. At one point, it states that when it gets to OSC, this agency “takes the position that a postal attorney represents the Postal Service and cannot also act as private counsel for the manager.”

NAPS does not agree with the USPS’ position of not representing the agents (EAS employees) performing the duties of the agency (the USPS). Furthermore, NAPS finds that the tasks being requested are outside the professional capacity of operational managers and must rest with the administrative professionals in the Human Resources Department.

NAPS proposes this course be revised or eliminated and replaced with something that establishes the importance of USERRA compliance. NAPS believes the course should focus on educating EAS employees on how to identify those who qualify for potential USERRA protection.

NAPS requests there be an absolute requirement to turn the administrative process of managing USERRA compliance over to the USPS Human Resources Department for adjudication.

Courtney Wheeler, USPS attorney and general counsel, attended the meeting and addressed this item. The Postal Service provides all management employees USERRA training as required by federal law. The agency’s USERRA training comports with the requirements set out by the Office of Personnel Management.
The purpose of the training is to make managers generally aware of the basis of USERRA and advise them that when they have USERRA-related issues, they should contact Human Resources for guidance. The USERRA training clearly explains the importance of following established protocols and identifies who is protected by the statute.

While OSC takes the position that agency attorneys cannot represent managers in USERRA investigations, the Postal Service insists on doing so and always has represented postal managers in such matters. Contrary to NAPS’ opinion, the USERRA-related duties that must be undertaken by managers are clearly within the scope of managerial duties, are neither complex nor onerous and are like other personnel-related matters for which they are responsible.

The manager’s duties are largely functional in nature and require the manager to notify Human Resources when an issue arises. Human Resources is responsible for deciding how to resolve USERRA issues.

NAPS responded that Wheeler’s explanation did not address the concerns of NAPS for the lack of support to EAS employees acting as agents of the Postal Service whose responsibilities are not, as stated by Wheeler, largely functional in nature and are the sole responsibility of Human Resources.

Agenda Item #3

NAPS Headquarters was made aware that, on Nov. 17, 2017, the USPS began the organizational change process of ending contracts with the freight-forwarding company Cargo Force. The scheduled completion of the organizational change is July 25, 2018.

Cargo Force operations received volumes of containerized mail transport equipment from origin NDCs around the country and consolidated them at one of their contracted centers.

ters into bed-loaded trips to various Cargo Force contracted facilities around the country to be re-contained and dispatched to the destination NDC.

NAPS requested responses to the following questions. Chanel Reedus, manager of Network Distribution Center Operations, attended the meeting and provided the responses, pointing out that the Postal Service reviews all contracts prior to expiration to determine the most cost-efficient manner once that contract expires.

- What is the impact to current NDC staffing?
  Staffing will be determined site-by-site using the standard metrics pertaining to craft and EAS staffing.

- What is the impact to NPA during a transition from Cargo Force?
  There should be no change to NPA because this is not new work.

- What is the projected number of Cargo Force deck-loaded trailers received at NDCs during this transition?
  Between six to 60 mixed hybrid containers, based on the number of trips.

- What mechanized equipment will be reconstituted to handle under-loading deck-loaded trailers of mail from Cargo Force?
  We are in the process of reviewing new technology.

- What additional workhours will be given to NDCs required to unload deck-loaded trailers?
  Workhours will be determined case by case, based on workload.

- What adjustments will be made to NPA scorecards to address the operational changes?
  There should be no change to NPA because this is not new work.

Agenda Item #4

NAPS brought back to the table Agenda Item #1 from the March consultative:

Line 3H on the Financial Report deals with parts and commercial labor. In an example provided by field EAS employees, the Postal Service has a warranty issue with an engine. The VMF pays for the replacement engine. On the back end, the refund for the engine goes to the finance number for where the vehicle is assigned—not the VMF that paid for the part.

This also applies to tort claims if a vehicle is wrecked and monies are recouped for the loss. These funds also go back to the finance number where the unit is assigned—not to the VMF that purchased any replacement parts for that vehicle.

When the VMF went under Headquarters reorganization, the VMF took ownership of line 3H, which is compensable to VMFs under NPA. NAPS requested that all funds recovered that impact VMFs under line 3H be returned to the VMF purchasing the parts and not to the finance number of the assigned vehicle.

The money goes back to the district and the district adjusts back to the VMF. Phong Quang said he did not make this statement, but that it was an editorialization of his response.

NAPS Headquarters has had further conversation with the field on this issue. It has been reiterated that this money is not going back to fleet.

NAPS requested a flowchart of how the trackable process of backflowing monies to VMFs is being accomplished. The purpose of this would be to educate VMF EAS employees on how to track costs at the field level to ensure NPA targets are being accurately reported.

Kirby Cothren, manager, Fleet Operations (A), attended and addressed this item. Funds are returned to the servicing VMF that completes the work after the 3rd of the month; this can be tracked in Enterprise Data Warehouse (EDW).

NAPS Headquarters later was provided more information:

Cothren discussed that 3H consists of parts issued to vehicles and any associated item with a repair, except USPS labor costs. Finance numbers are mapped to associated VMFs; thus, on the 2nd day of each month, costs associated with a vehicle repair are pushed to the appropriate VMF.

This can be viewed in line 3H by the 3rd of each month and is done via an automatic Journal Voucher entry. However, Cothren also indicated that accident repairs or tort claims do not necessarily get funneled back to 3H as there is no automatic Journal Voucher entry for that; it requires a manual entry. Thus, an expense could be charged to a VMF for accident repairs, yet tort claim refunds may not be returned to that VMF.

Agenda Item #5

NAPS Headquarters has been made aware of a recent settlement in the National Reassessment Program (NRP) in which monetary awards have/will be made that could directly impact total operating expenses (TOE).

NAPS requested responses to several questions. Roger Collado, manager, Injury Compensation & Medical Services (A), attended and addressed this item:

There was no settlement. This was a class-action decision by the EEOC. Notifications have been sent to the class members. The Postal Service currently is in litigation.

- What is the current financial impact to USPS?
  The financial impact has not been determined as we currently are in litigation.

- What are the impact implications to NPA?
  The NPA impact has not been determined as we currently are in litigation.

- What is the future financial impact from implementation of this program?
T’d-Off About T-Time

T-time needed to finish the work. If not, then they made the business decision to accept responsibility and results for the remaining work to be completed. Do not let your manager hold you accountable for their decisions.

Remember, additional straight-time pay is paid for all hours worked by special-exempt employees. “All hours worked” include supervising, administrative work, waiting for the last carrier to return to the office, driving mail to the plant or participating in teleconferences, to name just a few examples.

Also remember, you are not an indentured servant to the Postal Service. Do not let your manager treat you like one. You should be treated as a respected member of the postal leadership team and paid accordingly. If your manager knows they cannot guilt-trip, intimidate, trick or bully you into staying after 8.5 hours without compensating you, they either will instruct you to go home or tell you to continue working and pay you accordingly.

If you are instructed to stay, it is your responsibility to accurately report your workhours. If you do not accurately report the additional hours worked, you will not be properly paid. You also are doing yourself and the USPS a disservice by not accurately reporting what it takes to get the work done. It is your manager’s responsibility to ensure you get properly paid for working those additional hours.

Do not be intimidated or afraid of requesting the additional straight-time pay you have been instructed to work. You earned it. As a special-exempt employee, if you are not on the clock, you should not be working on the postal computer, driving a postal vehicle, participating in a postal teleconference or doing any other postal-related work. Plus, you should not put yourself in a situation where you are charged with falsifying your workhours by not properly reporting all hours worked.

NAPS Headquarters will not tolerate—and neither should our members—the abuse of power and intimidating tactics by some postal leaders to avoid paying T-time that legitimately has been worked. As long as EAS employees are being denied compensation they have rightfully earned, NAPS will not give up on this issue. We will continue to inform our members of their rights with regard to USPS pay policies.

Furthermore, I will not give up on providing you with an ice cream flavor-of-the-month recommendation. My July 2018 recommendation is triple chocolate truffle!

NAPS delegates, Auxiliary members, national officers and guests gathered at the Embassy Suites, San Rafael, CA, in the heart of Sonoma Valley wine country. NAPS Secretary/Treasurer Chuck Mulidore, Pacific Area Vice President Hayes Cherry and I represented NAPS Headquarters. National Auxiliary President Patricia Jackson-Kelley also attended.

California State Executive Board officers included President Marilyn Jones, Los Angeles; Vice President John Wong, Petaluma; Secretary Bridget Evans, San Diego; Treasurer Sally Simpao, South San Francisco; Area Vice President Tom Wong, Oakland; Area Vice President Vontina Swygert, Hayward; Area Vice President Charles Patterson, Hercules; Area Vice President Mariel Murillo, Riverside; and Legislative Consultant Marsha Danzy, Stockton. Dorotha Bradley was convention parliamentarian.

Before the start of the convention, Hayes Cherry hosted a representative training seminar conducted by Glenn Smith, NAPS Disciplinary Defense Fund provider (DDF). The training was informative and well-prepared, with good feedback from attendees. We also welcomed back to the state Sierra Coastal Branch 244 President Mary Burkhard.

On Monday morning, the opening ceremony and Presentation of Colors were conducted by NAPS veteran volunteers. NAPS and the Auxiliary held a memorial service to honor those members who died in the past year.

Larry Munoz, USPS Pacific Area vice president, was unable to attend, but he sent his key managers: Larry Belair, Pacific Area manager, Operations Support; Shawn West, Pacific Area manager, In-Plant Support; Bridget Carroll, Pacific Area Marketing manager; and Sean Andrews, manager of the Los Angeles NDC. The postal leaders shared updated information on new technology, programs and USPS goals that need the participation and support of our EAS employees. Romana Franco, Pacific Area engagement ambassador, and Erica Russell-Luke, Great Lakes ambassador, conducted a lively and upbeat engagement presentation.

After the postal presentations, President Marilyn Jones determined a quorum of branches was present; she called the roll and gavelled the convention to order. The convention rules were read and approved; committees to review the resolutions were confirmed. The Registration Committee certified all attendees. There were more than 32 resolutions to be voted on addressing legislation, Constitution & Bylaws, working conditions, compensation, postmasters and formal resolutions.

The committees met, presented their results to the delegations and, after objections, met with objectors. The resolutions were re-read and, after lively debate, the resolutions were voted on by convention delegates.

The seven first-timers were eager to join in the convention activities. Their task was to meet as many branch lead delegates and national officers as possible, introduce themselves and get the delegates to sign their convention book. Marsha Danzy, in conjunction with the Auxiliary, set a SPAC goal of $5,000. The first-timers were able to exceed that goal by $200!

Los Angeles Branch 39 Vice President Sam Booth was in charge of the Greetings Committee’s presentation. Sam recruited all the first-timers and most of the Auxiliary and national officers. Sam, who is very creative, presented a parody of the recent “Black Panther” movie. His theme involved two brothers—one a good manager, the other a bad manager—at the Wakanda Post Office. The good brother goes on detail and leaves the bad brother to destroy morale and give all the supervisors discipline.

In the parody, Chuck Mulidore and I were the NAPS elders (representatives) who came in and saved the abused and bullied EAS employees, brought back the good brother and banished the mean brother from the post office. The moral of the skit was to treat everyone fairly and with dignity and respect. We had a lot of fun and some very creative players came up with impromptu costumes to get into the theme.

The Auxiliary hosted a great lunch. The host branch offered a wine tasting and a great closing banquet with dancing, as well as a fun photo booth so attendees could take pictures.

This year’s convention was short because it was not an election year. The 2019 convention will be a bi-state convention hosted by Honolulu Branch 214, Chuck Lum, president.

Arizona State Training

Rocky Mountain Area Vice President Myrna Pashinski and Arizona State Branch 903 President Juan Luna sponsored the May 12 training seminar. NAPS Secretary/Treasurer Chuck Mulidore and I were specially invited NAPS national officers to attend this one-day training.

The postal guest was Gail Hendrix, acting Arizona District manager. She spent the entire day providing updated information and answering attendees’ questions. Dan Bethel, a representative from Dillard Financial Solutions, offered information on retirement planning.

Chuck provided updated information from NAPS Headquarters and responded to attendees’ questions and comments. Chuck and I also joined the training discussions.

Training focused on debt collection procedures of the ELM 450 and 650 process, including questions and answers. Juan and Myrna led the training and discussion. They reviewed in detail the procedures NAPS members need to follow to take advantage of NAPS representation when notified of owing a postal debt and responding to corrective or adverse actions as outlined in Chapter 650 of the ELM.

Hendrix’ remarks were well-received. She shared updated information on Informed Visibility, which is designed to help supervisors and managers track mail through the processing and delivery system. She shared there are significant software upgrades available to support mail delivery. The MDD scanners will be upgraded over time to perform more in-depth scanning, she said. The focus is on bundle, package and passive (mail tracking as it moves on the equipment) scanning.

Hendrix was asked how the work environment can be improved. She responded: “The main thing is the main thing.” There are three things in the workplace with which she deals: rumors, anonymous tips and what comes to her directly. “We need to work on the power of relationships,” she stressed. “We need to build a business relationship and be able to deal with our issues as wins/losses/ties (what-abouts).”

Hendrix said the focus should be on breaking the cycle of dysfunctions and looking at business issues: What is the business case? She also shared that when we have a concern or issue, we need to talk to the right

Dear Secretary Mnuchin, Director Mulvaney and Director Pon:

The National Association of Postal Supervisors appreciates the opportunity to provide these comments to the Task Force on the United States Postal System. These comments supplement our representatives’ discussion with Task Force staff on May 21, 2018.

The U.S. Postal Service continues to face significant financial and operational challenges, caused and exacerbated by changing technologies and shifting customer needs. Wide consensus exists that the long-term future of the Postal Service is threatened due to declining mail volume, increasing delivery points and revenues insufficient to sustain operations and statutory expectations. Clearly, the USPS business model is broken and requires fixing.

Valid legislative fixes are available through pending House and Senate bills (H.R. 756 and S. 2629) that improve the business model of the Postal Service and meet the changing demands of postal customers. They address important concerns, including service standards, needed innovation, and improved operations—the same issues discussed during our May 21 meeting with your staff. These bills are the product of extensive, bipartisan oversight and compromise and deserve prompt passage to create a sustainable and efficient postal system. In the same fashion, the proposed changes in postage rate-making by the Postal Regulatory Commission represent a responsible path forward and should be encouraged to move ahead. Action now in these areas would provide for immediate relief and permit Congress next year to focus more clearly on the long-term future of the Postal Service and the potential redefinition of the universal service obligation.

The uniformity of the USO obligation and its relationship to pricing adjustments in the letter and package markets require careful attention. Uniform, affordable and prompt mail service to all urban, suburban and rural areas should remain consistent attributes of the USO. Similarly, the mailbox and letter monopolies should be preserved for the very reasons that have sustained their existence through the years. The mailbox monopoly assures the security and sanctity of the mail. Its contribution to consumer confidence in the mail system and the prevention of mail theft is indispensable. Similarly, the letter monopoly provides a safety net for sufficient letter volume in the mail system—a situation warranted even more today.

Postal supervisors and managers believe passionately in the historic and constitutional mission of the Postal Service, but they are becoming increasingly disenchanted and disengaged in their job performance, as revealed by Gallup-conducted “Postal Pulse” surveys over the past several years, along with those conducted by the National Association of Postal Supervisors. These studies reveal heightened dissatisfaction by Postal Service supervisors and managers over workforce management practices, including the pay-for-performance system that is the sole source for pay adjustments for the 45,000 supervisors and managers covered by the USPS Executive and Administrative Schedule. Responsible improvements in these areas, along with realignment of the Title 39 pay consultation process between supervisor associations and the Postal Service, would measurably improve productivity and the USPS’ financial bottom line. In addition, annual pay adjustments by the Postal Service to assure private-sector pay comparability would preserve USPS compliance with existing statutory obligations.

Looking ahead, uniform, affordable mail service to all American households and businesses is critical to the preservation of the Postal Service and the pathway to making America great. Equally so, the preservation of America’s postal institution as a governmental enterprise is critical to its identity as a public service. The Postal Service, throughout its 240-year span, has demonstrated the capacity to evolve to better satisfy America’s changing needs. Harnessing that spirit of innovation in ways that benefit every city, town and village in our nation should be the guiding hallmark of the task force’s inquiry and recommendations.

Sincerely yours,

Brian J. Wagner
National President

Improving NAPS to Improve Members’ Futures—Today

The spring 2018 Executive Board meeting was called to order at 8 a.m. on March 14 by Chairman of the Board and Southern Region Vice President Tim Ford. New York Area Vice President Jimmy Warden gave the invocation; Southeast Area Vice President Bob Quinlan led the Pledge of Allegiance. Pioneer Area Vice President Tim Needham and Illini Area Vice President Luz Moreno were named sergeants-at-arms. Executive Vice President Ivan D. Butts conducted the roll call of officers; all board members were present, except Secretary/Treasurer Chuck Mulidore, absent for the morning session to attend to family needs following the death of his mother.

President Brian Wagner welcomed board members and thanked them for their commitment and dedication to represent NAPS not just at board meetings, but throughout their NAPS terms. He also thanked Butts and Mulidore for their ongoing leadership and counsel. He said the NAPS board would be hearing from Postmaster General Megan Brennan, Chief Information Officer Kristen Seaver and Vice President of Labor Relations Doug Tulino.

Wagner asked board members to keep their questions nationally based and make sure any issue they bring up already has been through the district and area levels. NAPS’ new DDF provider Al Lum also would address the board. “Our goal is to promote the welfare of NAPS and our members by being productive and respectful of each other’s opinions and final decisions we make as an Executive Board during this meeting,” he said. “Let’s stay focused on the agenda and continue to improve our NAPS organization with positive actions that will make our members’ future even better.”

Butts said it was good to see everyone and commented on the successful Legislative Training Seminar just concluded. He said he would be providing a SPAC update during the board meeting, but wanted to point out that the Executive Board gift card raffle set an example. “If we can keep leading the way,” he said, “our members will continue to follow.” There are many legislative issues still to be addressed, he pointed out, stressing it’s important to give members concise answers.

Mulidore arrived in time for the afternoon session on March 14. He thanked the board and all NAPS members for their sympathy and compassion for his family following the loss of his mother.

Total NAPS assets at the end of its Quarter 2 (Nov. 30, 2017) were $18,737,497.24. Quarter 2 “Revenues less Expenses” was $482,635.33. This was reflected in the secretary/treasurer’s financial report published in the March 2018 Postal Supervisor.

As of March 1, 2018, the NAPS General Fund, consisting of its PNC checking and PNC money market accounts, was $29,123.73 and $2,580.57, respectively, totaling $31,704.30. The Signature FCU checking account balance on March 1, 2018, was $210,489; the Signature FCU money market account was $79,064 for a total of $289,553. The grand total in all accounts as of March 1, 2018, was $321,257.30.

NAPS filed with the U.S. Patent and Trademark Office on Feb. 20, 2017, to trademark two NAPS logos: the most recognized red-and-white-circle logo, as well as the modern-looking logo used at LTS. This is an effort by NAPS to have control over who or what entities use the logos. NAPS still is waiting to hear from the commissioner of Patents and Trademarks to issue the Notice of Allowance—the final step in the process. Part of this process was to update NAPS Property, Inc. (NPA) registration in the state of Delaware, which lapsed, and soon will be transferred to Virginia, and to register NAPS as an entity in the state of Virginia, which has occurred.

As of March 1, 2018, the NAPS building was 90 percent leased. The former Ladas and Parry space on the lobby level now is occupied by LRB under a long-term lease. The third-floor office, formerly occupied by Marstel-Day, has been vacant since Jan. 1, 2018. On March 31, 2018 AACP will vacate the second floor. NAPS is not receiving regular owner distributions through FY18 due to projected maintenance, tenant improvements, commissions and potential lost revenue through unrenewed leases. NPI currently has $385,875 set aside through May 31, 2018, to cover these costs, with an additional $202,000 required through the end of FY19, if necessary.

As of March 1, 2018, NAPS Headquarters social media results were as follows:

- NAPSHQ2U was discontinued January 2018.
- Facebook “friends” were 1,802.
- NAPS has 463 Twitter followers.
- The NAPS webpage had 3,588 users in January 2018 and 3,418 in February; approximately 5 percent of this traffic was linked to social media.

As of the January 2018 DCO (reflecting DCO membership through PP1 and PP2) NAPS had 27,076 members (25,738 active and 1,338 associates; 95 percent and 5 percent, respectively). Total membership from a year ago (PP1 and PP2 2017) was 26,659 (25,295 active and 1,364 associate)—an overall total SPLY increase of 417 members or 1.56 percent.

As of the January 2018 DCO, the total number of active EAS non-members was 9,806. This number is based on the USPS payroll files of non-member EAS employees who are coded non-postmasters. Based on current membership totals, there are approximately 27.6 percent non-members. NAPS continues to encourage membership growth by providing sponsors of new members a $25 NAPS check.

Local and state branches continue to receive their NAPS Non-Member and Change Summary reports, along with their DCO and Mail reports on a monthly basis.

Al Lum of Labor Relations Admin Group (LRAG) provided an update to the proposed changes in the ELM 450 by the USPS. The board also asked about data analysis of DDF cases. Lum said he currently has a staff of five representatives: three attorneys and two former labor relations advocates. All came from Scialla Associates. He is actively seeking to expand the staff to handle DDF cases. As of Jan. 1, 2018, there were 31 cases: 17 MSPB, three ELM 650 and 11 debt collection.

Pacific Area Vice President Hayes Cherry asked what system Lum uses to receive information. He can accept cases via mail, fax or email. Butts suggested meeting with Lum to provide a checklist for members to send DDF information to him. LRAG’s reports are good and NAPS can build a library with the final cases Lum sends to NAPS after a case has been finalized. This would help members understand cases and how to prepare for a case. Lum is taking advantage of technology to generate the data NAPS needs.

Texas Area Vice President Jaime Elizondo asked about the philosophy regarding how DDF advocates handle their cases. The advocates know they have expense limits and also know they must contact the member if the cost is going above the limits. Elizondo said in some cases members have felt pressured to take a settlement rather than going to the MSPB. Lum responded that if a member wants to push forward with a case, the advocate should listen to the member.

Rocky Mountain Area Vice President Myrna Pashinski asked for a breakdown of the 31 cases received so far: MSPB—clock ring falsifications and credit card misuse; TACS ring issues of moving carriers off the street.
when still on the street delivering, plus ET of carriers to avoid paying them while they still are delivering mail; debt collection—unit reserve and main-floor stock shortages. The stamp stock must be counted before it is accepted.

Lum also commented on USPS credit cards. If employees use a USPS credit card for personal use, it is similar to a person taking a postal vehicle to move furniture.

Butts, SPAC Manager Katie Maddocks and Legislative Counsel Bruce Moyer provided updates on SPAC and legislation. Butts commended Maddocks and Moyer for their dedicated work promoting NAPS’ legislative efforts—at LTS and year-round. Delegates gave very positive comments about the recent LTS. SPAC contributions at LTS totaled $33,586.83, which included in-kind donations. The dates for the 2019 LTS are March 10-13.

NAPS Auxiliary President Patricia Jackson-Kelley and Secretary Bonita Atkins addressed the board. Kelley said the Auxiliary had some difficulties this past year, but has recovered by finally getting all financial records and funds accounted for. She said she continues to make efforts to ensure there is transparency for all Auxiliary members and NAPS Headquarters. The Auxiliary appreciates being able to provide a column each issue for The Postal Supervisor.

The Auxiliary collected $27,771 for SPAC at LTS. This does not include in-kind donations. The Auxiliary also raised more than $1,400 from selling Jo Geter’s fudge and $300 selling cookies from Hawaii. The Auxiliary expressed thanks to Maddocks and Jovan Duncan for their efforts, as well as Sheri Davies of ConferenceDirect. Also, special thanks were expressed to Auxiliary Western Region Vice President Lee Leopold, Pacific Area Vice President May Nazareno and the entire California membership for their support. Kelley said it had been a challenging year making appointments for LTS; however, things worked out. As always, the Auxiliary thanks NAPS for its support.

Wagner thanked the Auxiliary for all its efforts. He said he wants the Auxiliary to attend the delegate orientation at this year’s national convention to help promote the Auxiliary. Butts thanked the Auxiliary leaders for their service to NAPS. Several other board members also thanked the Auxiliary for its hard work and service to NAPS at the national, state and local levels.

Sheri Davies provided an update on the 2018 LTS, planning for the 2018 National Convention and an update on the 2022 National Convention site selection process. At the 2018 LTS, $13,925 was collected for sponsorship—an increase of $3,425 from the previous year.

Under old business, the board discussed the Dillard Financial Solutions contract approved at the fall 2017 Executive Board meeting.

The board observed a moment of silence for 17 seconds for the 17 children killed in the Florida school shooting. Elizondo asked everyone to remember the bombings earlier this year in Austin, TX, and pointed out that no packages came from the USPS. Service talks on how to handle this bombing situation were provided to employees.

Kristen Seaver, USPS chief information officer, addressed the board. She talked about how to bring in technology and invest for the future based on limited funding. She said technology is across all functions of the USPS; about 1,700 employees work in functions under the chief information officer.

Seaver explained the network must run in order for the Postal Service to operate daily and work to transform and grow the business and secure the network. She offered examples of people, processes and products:

1. Automated Package Verification—the CIO team designed a state-of-the-art platform to identify short-paid packages and charge the mailer for the short-paid postage. In FY17, $73 million was deferred; $39 million so far in FY18.

2. Parcel Return Process—designed to simplify the process for USPS customers and employees.

3. Enterprise Payment System—allows for an easier-flowing payment system.

4. Centralized Help Desk—to reduce customer waiting, improve resolution and improve the customer experience.

Doug Tulino, USPS vice president of Labor Relations, said the big issue is service, which impacts NPA, performance and revenue—all functions of the organization. He said this year will bring two rounds of collective bargaining: rural carriers and the APWU. Following are his responses to questions posed by board members:

1. Line H interpretation—it is not necessary to use just one report to document time used for line H; it’s... Continued on page 34 necessary to staff properly, but at the 90 percent level.

2. EAS T-time—there may need to be a policy to address use of mandatory T-time for EAS employees. Postal Headquarters will look at this; Tulino encouraged NAPS to provide information.

3. EAS employees required to call in to telecons on non-scheduled days or at 6 a.m. or 6 p.m.—this may need to be addressed locally before bringing instances to USPS Headquarters.

4. Continuing to work on the SWCs process; there has been data collection/testing in the Northeast Area; should staff at the seven-day level.

5. No actual timeline for a person to be on emergency placement; however, it is dependent on the charge, the level of investigation and the type of activity.

6. Responding to a comment that the Postal Service does care about people and the organization, Tulino responded it is difficult to balance pay with the financials of the USPS. But, he added, while the leadership of the organization puts people first, from NAPS’ perspective that is not always communicated to the field.

7. ELM 650 mediation frequently is denied after corrective action has been issued; the term “egregious” often is used as justification for the denial. Tulino said the USPS agrees to look at this issue.

8. Laterals and downgrades—this issue is being looked at by Postal Headquarters.

9. Issues of supervisors delivering the mail, EAS employees are being required to deliver mail in some areas. EAS employees being disciplined for WTIL failures; documentation is available that these are not proper.

The Postal Service still is a great organization, Tulino stressed. He said issues that arise continually are being looked at by the USPS.

Postmaster General Megan Brennan addressed the NAPS board. She thanked board members and NAPS for helping advance the Postal Service’s public policy issues on Capitol Hill. She stressed the agency must remain viable as a public institution.

“We must improve service,” she stated. “It’s not all weather-related. Keep service foundational and at the center of all we do.”

Brennan offered that in order to improve NPA, it’s necessary to keep managing the business and do the best for customers. She pointed out that volume is down 1.9 billion pieces. FedEx and UPS are building volume back into their networks, taking back from the USPS she said. Also, Amazon is shifting volume from the USPS as it builds volume density in its own network.

The Postal Service is working to slow product diversion through competitive pricing and technology to track mail through the system; there was $100 million of controllable income through February.

Regarding public policy, the Postal Service has had meetings with congressional leaders to advance postal reform legislation. “Without legislative and regulatory reform,” she said, “not enough can be done to increase the long-term viability of the Postal Service through management actions alone.”

Also, the Postal Service is best served when there is a fully constituted Board of Governors. She referenced recent natural disasters and pointed out the USPS matters to communities all over the country.

Following are responses to questions from board members:

1. There was a 38 percent increase in Parcel Select volume in FY17.
2. Pushing Priority volume into Sunday is good for business and it takes pressure off Monday.
3. Regarding filling EAS vacancies, there is a 7 percent EAS vacancy rate. Filling these positions can reduce supervisor extra hours, seven days-a-week coverage and improve performance.
4. It’s important to continue to press the urgency of postal reform.
5. Have customer inquiries into “lost or missing” parcels tied into parcel-sorting machines; leverage the technology to improve customer experience. Will make recommendations to engineering to advance this.
6. Work continues on the next-generation vehicles; about 12,000 “off the shelf” vehicles probably will be deployed this year—such as ProMaster vehicles—until new vehicles can be deployed.
7. MDDs have shelter-in-place provisions for serious events.

Brennan said the USPS values the work NAPS members perform every day and it’s important to continue to elevate workplace issues.

The March consultative meeting was held in conjunction with the board meeting (see the June 2018 issue for the report).

The following Executive Board Committee reports were presented:

Constitution and Bylaws Committee—The board reviewed and discussed resolutions to be presented at the 2018 National Convention.

SWCs Committee—A review was completed regarding information collected during the six-month work study March 2017 through September 2017. After review, it was decided to conduct a further review at six of the 36 test sites.

Specifically, the review would have someone shadow a supervisor and document their activities from the time they begin their day to the actual end of their day. This would occur on specific days during February 2018. The review of each supervisor would occur four days—Saturday, Sunday, Monday and Wednesday.

The reason to conduct a further review is because it was determined by data previously collected during the test study period in 2017 that even though all offices/stations performed the same tasks, the workload involved in completing the tasks greatly differed. For example, some offices/stations averaged maybe two ECC complaints a day, while others averaged 20. Although the two offices/stations completed the same task (ECCs), the workload greatly differed.

Average time factors were developed from the observations conducted in February 2018 for specific tasks. Multi-floor operations, hours of operation and Sunday operations also are being considered. There will be a meeting in April to try and determine having the time factors converted into credit points for the SWCs calculation.

Training Committee—Plans are to produce a 15-minute video on staying out of trouble using real examples and add it to the NAPS website with a link that takes a member directly to a training tab. Guidelines also are planned for training branch vice presidents; there is a deadline of May 15 to have these materials ready.

Following are the Legislative Committee member reports:

Ivan Butts, Executive Vice President—I have crossed the country visiting branches and encouraging our members to dig deeply into their pockets to give to SPAC so our National Legislative Team—led by Bruce Moyer, Katie Maddocks and me—gains greater access to legislators. While the resident officers have been busy with pay talks, we still have to focus on our other assigned tasks at NAPS Headquarters.

The Legislative Training Seminar (LTS) is under my purview. We had a great turnout at this year’s LTS and look forward to an ambitious SPAC year. We received donated gifts and gift cards for the Auxiliary SPAC auction and the NAPS gift card raffle. We met our goal to exceed last year’s LTS SPAC total of $30,000. This year, we raised $34,234 for SPAC!

Our NAPS board Legislative Committee is committed to encouraging more NAPS members and retirees to join our “Drive for 5” continuous contributor campaign. We want to make it convenient for members to easily contribute to SPAC and over time through payroll deductions or OPM, if retired. Thanks to the board members for giving $100 to support our SPAC gift card raffle and leading by example to show our commitment to SPAC!

I developed a new “Drive for 5” SPAC pin and hope to see many new members signing up for this benefit and wearing the new pin. Now that this year’s LTS is completed, we will focus on the NAPS national convention in August.

Jimmy Warden, New York Area vice president—11 congressional officials, representing districts in the five boroughs of the New York area, wrote a letter regarding concerns with postal issues to Postmaster General Megan Brennan. The concerns included late and non-delivery of mail, long lines in the lobbies and collection box “fishing.” All 11 elected officials are Democrats.

A respective district manager who met with some of the elected officials said specifics were not given. The elected officials did not wish to give specifics; they feared their constituents would become targets of reprisal. In this one respective district, there are approximately 3,000 collection boxes. The initiative to retrofit the boxes in order to eliminate “fishing” is underway; 500 boxes already have been completed.

This district also has arranged for a quarterly meeting with members of the congressional offices to discuss issues and follow up on previous actions taken. Sen. Charles Schumer has held press conferences in front of post offices, as well, to address mail delivery in other parts of New York.

In reference to SPAC initiatives, Branch 202 held a cigar night and raised $425. At training seminars, we no longer have 50/50 raffles because we can raise more money for SPAC with prizes raffled off that were donated as in-kind gifts. For the upcoming New York State convention, gifts will be donated and raffled to raise money for SPAC. All branches attending LTS have been encouraged to donate an in-kind gift to the SPAC raffle table.

Marilyn Walton, Western Region vice president—Since our last board meeting in the fall, I have attended numerous SPAC fundraisers conducted by many of the NAPS branches. I have attended pre- and post-holiday events and am pleased to report that Western Region NAPS branches are conducting SPAC fundraising at their events.

I attended Rep. John Garamendi’s (D-3rd CA) annual crab feed in Vacaville, CA, sponsored by NAPS. Our group had an opportunity to spend quality time with Garamendi and talk about postal/federal issues. NAPS California Bay Area Branch 127 attended several town hall meetings with the following representatives: Jerry McNerney, (D-9th CA), Eric Swalwell, (D-15th CA) and Mark DeSaulnier (D-11th CA).

I, along with my fellow California Postal Legislative Coalition members, coordinated the 20th Annual California Coalition event in Sacramento. Both postal management associations, all postal unions and NARFE were represented. Chuck Mulidore was the keynote speaker. We hosted over 100 attendees at this event.

The California Coalition is working on supporting postal/federal-friendly candidates in the upcoming 2018 mid-term elections. We are specifically targeting seven California incumbent House representatives who have not been supportive of postal/federal employees and retirees. The coalition still is promoting a California Assembly bill that would fund postal workers to assist authorities during national disasters, such as floods, fires and earthquakes.

I was pleased to see the increase in Western Region members joining our “Drive for 5.” I continue to encourage more members to join us!

Jaime Elizondo, Texas Area vice president—Since the fall board meeting, I have reviewed the legislative information from Bruce Moyer and forwarded emails to my Texas group. I elaborated on certain points to garner support for our efforts.

I continue to be on email lists for our Texas senators and continually review their positions on national topics affecting NAPS. I have sent them personal emails on my positions—mirroring that of NAPS—regarding legislative issues. I have pushed support for postal reform legislation with my congressman, as well.

I attended several branch installations and meetings since our previous board meeting. I attended the Fort Worth SPAC fundraiser where I supported Executive Vice President Ivan Butts as he talked to the group about SPAC.

I continue to use every opportunity to discuss the political climate we face with our current elected officials. I also ensure I talk about the NAPS legislative agenda. I ask for continued SPAC support and mention the ease of signing up for “Drive for 5.”

I continue to sincerely sing the praises of the Auxiliary and show my support for the Texas State Auxiliary—verbally and monetarily. I already have donated several hundred dollars’ worth of gift items for the Texas State Convention SPAC raffle. Texas raised a significant amount of money last year via the SPAC raffle. I hope to help surpass that amount this year. I am a President’s Ultimate SPAC donor for 2017 and exceeded the $1,000-plus donation level.

Kevin Trayer, Michiana Area vice president—In the Michiana Area and Central Region, we continue to encourage NAPS members to join the “Drive for 5.” The Central Region collected over $5,000 in a day and a half at its recent training symposium.

It’s time for candidates to be looking for SPAC money. We need to make sure they are in support of our members’ needs before contributing to their campaigns.

It’s clear we still need to do more messaging about SPAC. At many large meetings, a lot of members still do not know what it means or why we are collecting.

Louis Atkins, immediate past national president—I have written to all the Louisiana senators and representatives, expressing NAPS’ views on Congress attempting to reduce benefits for retirees in recent proposed budgets. Only Cedric Richmond, a Democrat from District 2, has expressed support for our views. Others have said they will look at our positions, but I am not convinced!

I have attended many NAPS events and have been pleased to see that most branches conduct SPAC fundraisers. I currently am preparing to go up on Capitol Hill to help deliver NAPS’ message directly to our legislators.
Bob Quinlan, Southeast Area vice president—I have visited my congressman, Rep. Daniel Webster (R), to affirm the importance of postal reform. Florida and Georgia finished #1 in the country for the area and #1 for Florida in total contributions in the country. We strive to be #1 and always challenge other states to raise the bar!

At every branch meeting and the state convention, members sell 50-50 raffle tickets, which helps our fundraising for the entire year. We also have a silent auction at the state convention to which our members donate items. In 2017, Florida raised over $34,000. Let’s keep raising the bar!

Ethics Committee—No report.

Postmaster Committee—Several Executive Board members are postmasters. They continually seek ways to express to postmasters that NAPS values their membership and participation.

Membership Committee—Executive Board members continue to seek ways to increase members, especially at NSP classes and USPS career awareness conferences.

PFP Advisory Committee—We continue to provide information to the board as 2018 PFP results are released monthly, as well as preparing for 2019 goals.

Duties and Responsibilities Committee—We’ve been examining and updating the D&R Guide for board members; no changes for this board meeting.

Stacey Herndon, PNC Investments, updated the board on NAPS investments portfolio and investment strategies. The 2017 YTD return was 13.26 percent. PNC is looking at more volatility in 2018, but not a recession. Regarding the tax reform bill, it’s estimated that all the benefits of tax reform already were in the markets. PNC does not believe tax reform will extend the business cycle. While it will drive some return in 2018, don’t look for tremendous increases in GDP, Herndon counseled. Many companies are giving one-time bonuses, but that will not drive the market long-term via tax reform.

Per PNC’s outlook and projections for the next few years, Herndon said equity return projections are coming down; 10 to 12 percent returns are not expected. PNC is adjusting estimates downward. The market should be looking at 5 to 7 percent returns on a 10-year projection, with a 3 percent annual return.

Herndon was asked how this will impact NAPS’ portfolio. She said PNC is not projecting a recession. She also was asked if NAPS’ investments are inconsistent with what NAPS is advocating in legislation regarding the TSP. Herndon said NAPS investments are not inconsistent in the investment strategy to drive more return in the TSP.

Bruce Moyer addressed the board as NAPS legal counsel. He said the logo trademark application is taking much longer than expected and NAPS is working with outside counsel on this. Approval by the Patent Trade Office is expected soon.

A complaint was filed with the NLRB regarding NAPS. NAPS filed its response, stating there was no jurisdiction. The complaints ultimately were withdrawn by the complainant.

A complaint was filed in district court claiming NAPS failed to adequately represent a member in a MSPB complaint. NAPS is awaiting final action by the court to dismiss the member’s last complaint, which is a breach of contract.

Moyer provided a confidential pay talks update to the board.

Motion 1—Brian Wagner, seconded by Marilyn Walton, that “On or after June 1, 2018, NAPS Headquarters purchases 50 National Auxiliary Luncheon tickets—two tickets for each Executive Board member—to support the Auxiliary’s Friday, Aug.10, 2018, luncheon during the 2018 NAPS National Convention at the Mohegan Sun Resort in Uncasville, CT.”

The motion passed unanimously.

Motion 2—Brian Wagner, seconded by Kevin Trayer, that “On or after June 1, 2018, NAPS Headquarters donates $10,000 to the NAPS National Auxiliary for support of its 2018 National Auxiliary Luncheon to be held Friday, Aug. 10, 2018, during the 2018 NAPS National Convention at the Mohegan Sun Resort in Uncasville, CT.”

The motion passed unanimously.

Motion 3—Bart Green, withdrawn.

Motion 4—Greg Murphy, seconded by Louis Atkins, that “The first selection for seating on the floor of the National Convention will be given to the host region. Remaining seating will be done as in the past.”

Voting “yes” were Wagner, Butts, Roma, R. Green, Walton, Warden, Murphy, Aglidian, Griffin, Needham, Trayer, Elizondo, Pashinski, McCracken and Atkins. Voting “no” were Johnson, Moreno, Mooney, B. Green, Rowel, Quinlan, S. Green and Cherry. Absent: Mulidore. As board chair, Ford does not vote. The motion passed.

Motion 5—Richard Green, seconded by Ivan Butts, that “NAPS matches donations given by members to PERF during the 2018 LTS totaling $568.”

The motion passed unanimously.

Motion 6—Brian Wagner, seconded by Richard Green, to “Accept the NAPS 2018-2020 preliminary budget as the final NAPS budget as no corrections were made on the preliminary budget.”

Voting “yes” were Wagner, Butts, Mulidore, Roma, R. Green, Johnson, Walton, Warden, Murphy, Griffin, Needham, Trayer, Moreno, Mooney, B. Green, Rowel, Quinlan, S. Green, Elizondo, Pashinski, McCracken, Cherry and Atkins. Voting “no” was Aglidian. As board chair, Ford does not vote. The motion passed.

Motion 7—Dan Mooney, seconded by Louis Atkins, that

“In the May issue of The Postal Supervisor (deadline March 19), NAPS will publish a notice that states anyone wishing to declare their candidacy for a regional or area office notify NAPS Headquarters by May 17 (deadline for July issue) and it will be published in the July issue of The Postal Supervisor.”

Voting “yes” were Wagner, Mooney and Atkins. Voting “no” were Butts, Mulidore, Roma, R. Green, Johnson, Walton, Warden, Murphy, Aglidian, Griffin, Needham, Trayer, B. Green, Rowel, Quinlan, S. Green, Elizondo, Pashinski, McCracken and Cherry. Voting “no” was Aglidian. As board chair, Ford does not vote. The motion passed.

Recommendation 1—Cornel Rowel, seconded by Tim Needham, that “If a NAPS member already has purchased an airline ticket for the national convention and then is selected to serve on an advance convention committee, that NAPS Headquarters pays for all change fees for advance committee members.”

Legislative Representative and SPAC Manager

In the House and Senate postal reform bills, H.R. 756 and S. 2629, there is a call for a chief innovation officer to develop and implement postal and non-postal products and services in order to maximize revenue.

Following this call for greater sources of income, multiple pieces of legislation introduced in both congressional chambers would allow for greater use of the postal system and post offices—not only increasing the revenue of USPS, but also adding to the national economy.

Rep. Cedric Richmond (D-LA) took on this task of innovation with his “Providing Opportunities for Savings, Transactions, and Lending (POSTAL) Act of 2017,” H.R. 3617. This bill allows for expanding basic financial services in existing post offices. Services could include small-dollar loans, international money transfers and checking and savings accounts.

Sen. Kirsten Gillibrand (D-NY) introduced similar legislation, S. 2755, noting that not only would a postal banking system help financially underserved citizens, but also would cut down predatory lending—generating earnings for the Postal Service and improving individuals’ and households’ financial stability.

Also recognizing the need for and benefit of innovating services, Rep. Jackie Speier (D-CA) introduced legislation that would end the ban on shipping alcohol through the postal system. As wineries, breweries and other producers are allowed to ship their goods through private carriers, the USPS is at a distinct disadvantage due to outdated Prohibition Era regulations. The “USPS Shipping Equity Act,” H.R. 4024, would put the USPS in a competitive wine and beer shipping market and could generate $50 million in revenue.

There is no question the Postal Service needs supplemental sources of income. These pieces of legislation look outside the box to expand services. As the average postal customer’s demands are changing, calls from elected officials offer a means to thoughtfully grow revenue and help create a sustainable Postal Service.

people who can solve our problem and make sure we have the right people involved. “Gail Hendrix does not make policy,” she declared. “I interpret what already exists.”

The acting DM also suggested that EAS employees need to be proactive. “Make sure you are addressing a problem regarding what happened today and what you plan to do to make a change,” she said.

“Also, we all need to work on standardizing processes to support success. Make sure everyone knows the processes.”

Hendrix said you can work hard on the wrong thing. “Don’t try to fix everything at once,” she stressed. “Work on one or two things, then move to the next thing after achieving some success. Use the LSS processes, tools and techniques. If you still are struggling, call someone who is more successful and ask what they are doing. Share your successes so we all can be successful!” Her message was very positive and motivational.

Juan and Myrna did a great job selecting topics and guests, including handouts and a tasty lunch. We enjoyed outstanding networking and quality time meeting with Hendrix. She has committed to meeting regularly with the management associations and unions.

The Postal Supervisor / July 2018  41
How to Take Initiative and Become a Self-Starter

Organizations seem to be in a constant state of change. These changes can be developmental, transitional or transformational as companies work toward the goal of becoming agile organizations. Agile organizations are more adaptive, innovative and resilient. If organizations can adapt, take initiative and be assertive, can you, as an employee, do the same? Yes, you can.

By examining and understanding our dynamic world, you can learn how to follow the right initiative at the right time. Start by understanding your own personal and professional purpose and the roles you play. Combine this understanding with your own EQ (emotional intelligence)—self-awareness, social awareness, self-management and relationship management—to become an assertive self-starter. It all can lead to more favorable outcomes and results for you and your organization.
What does it mean to take initiative and be an assertive self-starter?

We all have worked with colleagues who are willing to take the initiative to develop an idea. These employees always seem to assert themselves at the right time. Often, we see them gain momentum, help peers and accomplish amazing things that lead to favorable outcomes. When you take initiative and act professionally, you help your organization grow and succeed. It all leads to increased results.

Try these four steps to take more initiative and become a self-starter:

1. Accept challenges and align to your organization’s plans. See and understand what your organization rewards and recognizes. Work to make your organization succeed and work to make important contributions that will add value in important areas. Act when opportunities arise.

2. See and shape your vision for career and personal success. Some meaningful advice I heard in my undergraduate program was “Your life is a work of art, so paint your picture.” See your vision, the possibilities, goals, plans and processes you need to set in place to achieve that vision. Reflect on it and act; don’t procrastinate. Keep moving toward your vision and goals.

3. Positive self-expectancy—expect to win. Having positive self-expectancy means you are confident you have all the skills and knowledge necessary to complete a task. When self-expectancy is high, you expect to win and have a positive outlook when you take on a new challenge or initiative. Display a “will-do” and “can-do” attitude.

4. Don’t worry about failure. Michael Jordan once said, “I’ve failed over and over and over again in my life. That is why I succeed.” Author Jack Canfield tells us, “Don’t worry about failures; worry about the chances you miss when you don’t even try.” Writer Mary Anne Radmacher said, “The jump is so frightening between where I am and where I want to be. Because of all I may become, I will close my eyes and leap!”

As employees, it’s important to remain flexible and adaptable. Perform to the best of your ability and align to your organization’s leadership, strategies, systems, structure and culture. Going forward, think of yourself as a leader and a person who takes initiative. See yourself being highly motivated, enthusiastic, cooperative and an assertive self-starter. Give it your very best!

When Relationships End

Uman relationships can be difficult, challenging and hard to understand. You may notice this in your own relationships or those you see around you. It can be hard to know what to do when a relationship between co-workers ends. Not only is it difficult for the people involved in the relationship, but it can be hard for their co-workers and supervisors to know what to do and say without making the situation worse.

These situations tend to trigger very intense emotions that can make it hard to maintain professionalism and calm in the workplace. This article discusses ideas for how to stay professional at work while dealing with a broken relationship, as well as how to support others who are trying to do this.

When a friendship or romantic relationship is over, we often feel betrayed, burned or devastated. Or maybe we are on the other end and realize this isn’t the right relationship for us and are looking for a way out. The end of a relationship is usually complicated, but much more so when the broken relationship is with a co-worker. How do you get over hurt when you have to see the other person regularly? What is the best way to deal with someone else’s hurt feelings at work? The idea of mindful separation might be helpful in these kinds of situations.

In mindful separation, we are respectful of everyone’s feelings, including our own. We choose not to engage in the negative behaviors that can keep us entangled in an increasingly hurtful situation. This is true for the people involved in the broken relationship and everyone around them. Sounds great, but how do we do that?

First, if you are thinking about distancing yourself from a friend at work or ending a romantic relationship with a co-worker, take care in doing so. Be respectful of what you shared together. Be mindful in your choice of time, place and words. Be gentle but honest and firm about your feelings. Expect the other person may express hurt and anger and try to accept that reaction without getting defensive.

Submitted by the USPS Employee Assistance Program

People often can see their role in problems when they have a little distance, but, generally, not when the hurt is fresh. So, listing all the complaints about the other person likely will not work well. Instead, express the impact of certain behaviors using “I” statements, such as “I have been feeling very hurt when you continue to criticize me for small things.” It also is important to clearly state the relationship is over. Leaving any room for doubt can lead the other person to believe there is hope and cause additional hurt and delay in healing and moving on.

If you are on the receiving end of a conversation such as the one above—whether a surprise to you or expected—it still hurts. Self-compassion is very important. Doing your best to attend to your own feelings rather than consuming yourself with what the other person is doing will help. While it is human to continue to focus on the other person, doing so steals energy away from healing and moving forward.

If you are bearing witness to the breakdown of a relationship in your workplace, you may find yourself being called on for support or to be a referee. It is tempting to choose sides, but do your best to resist doing that. Everyone has their own perspective about what happened and brings their own experiences that color how they understand what happened. Rather than taking sides, you can offer compassion and use words that show you care that someone is in pain.

You can help them try to focus on their own self-care rather than on whatever the former friend or romantic partner is doing. You can look for opportunities to make things less awkward and lonely for people experiencing this. You can encourage healthy behaviors and express confidence in their ability to be present and professional in the workplace.

The early days after a relationship with a co-worker has come to an end usually are awkward and uncomfortable, to say the least. Expect this to be true if the situation involves you or someone with whom you work. It can be difficult to know what to do during breaks or even whether to greet the other person when you arrive at work. Try being compassionate with yourself or someone else going through this.

Making a plan for how to handle breaks and lunches or how you want to greet or not greet the other person can ease the situation a little. Limiting interactions with the other person to what is necessary for work and keeping a neutral tone often is the best plan for dealing with encounters at work.

The next word to the wise is about how much we involve co-workers in the details of a broken relationship or how much we allow ourselves to be involved with a co-worker’s broken relationship. It is human nature to want to share your upset feelings with others or defend yourself when others might perceive you as being in the wrong. Finding someone in whom you can confide outside of work is best; you also can encourage someone else to do this.

The EAP is a great resource in this situation. You can gently suggest this helpful resource by saying, “Hey, it might really help to talk to someone who can offer ideas of how to get through this. The EAP is free to use and confidential.” Most of us want support when we are experiencing something like this; it can be tempting to think that support is about choosing sides, but it doesn’t have to be. Support can be someone acknowledging you’re having a bad day. It can be someone encouraging you to take care of yourself and distracting you from thinking about your former friend or partner.

As time goes on, most people heal from hurt and move on, but some of us struggle with it. This can be made worse when we see signs or are told by co-workers that our former friend or partner is moving on. Or we might feel tempted to make sure our former friend or partner knows we are moving on to try to inspire jealousy or out of a sense of revenge. This can get ugly and make the workplace unpleasant for everyone.

This is another good time for self-compassion and telling yourself, “Yes, the person I cared for is moving on and that is what people do. It hurts right now to know this but, at some point when I am ready, I will move on, too.” It also is okay to let co-workers know that, although you appreciate their concern, you don’t really want to know details about your former friend or partner.

The main goal of mindful separation is refocusing on our own healing and well-being. It is important to pull back any energy we were putting in the relationship that has ended and use that energy for ourselves. When we continue to talk about our former friend or partner and stoke our anger over and over again or try to provoke the other person, we are continuing to put energy into a relationship that has ended. Not only is this a waste of energy, it’s painful and stops us from engaging in the healing we need to do to move on to happier times.

If you find yourself feeling stuck in recovering from a broken relationship, reaching out to the EAP can help. Call the EAP at 1-800-327-4968 (TTY: 1-877-492-7341) or find more information about relationships on EAP4YOU.com.
Social Media and You

By Joe Bodary

Postmasters, managers and supervisors are held to the same expectations of conduct as craft employees. You may be even surprised to know that some of the rules to which we are held accountable also apply to what we do outside the Postal Service.

Section 665.16 of the ELM, “Behavior and Personal Habits,” reads: “Employees are expected to conduct themselves during and outside of working hours in a manner that reflects favorably upon the Postal Service. Although it is not the policy of the Postal Service to interfere with the private lives of employees, it does require that postal employees be honest, reliable, trustworthy, courteous and of good character and reputation.”

With that in mind, let’s talk about the internet! Most members have social media accounts, such as Facebook and Twitter, in which they list being employed by the USPS. Some even include titles such as Postmaster, Manager or Supervisor. Once you do this, you now represent the USPS. Whatever you say reflects on the Postal Service—favorably or unfavorably.

If you have identified yourself as a member of management on social media sites, you now speak for the USPS. Whenever you post anything, you really need to think before you act to ensure your opinion supports the Postal Service in a positive manner. Remember, people who read your posts can cut and paste or otherwise share them with millions of others; that can put you in a difficult spot at work.

What you may not think about is that people who are not on your friends list also can see what you post. You think it’s going only to your small group, but it’s not. I have seen posts by people who have identified themselves as postal employees who I can’t believe still work for us. This includes negative statements about the Postal Service, as well as personal opinions on subjects such as politics, religion, drugs and more. Nothing is private anymore! You need to keep that in mind at all times.

As a personal example, my son worked for a company as a manager and one day posted on Facebook how he was upset with his boss. He did not identify the company he worked for in his profile, but said he was frustrated with his boss yelling at him all the time when he had done nothing wrong.

My son lived 1,000 miles away, so, being the supportive father, I replied to his post that sometimes managers are frustrated with other things and take it out on their employees. If he was comfortable he had done nothing wrong, I replied, then let it go. Much to my surprise, his boss saw my comment and my son was written up for what I wrote. My fatherly support backfired; I had no idea that could happen. After that, I now only call to offer support.

A few things to follow to help keep you out of trouble:

• Don’t write anything about the Postal Service unless you are sharing something the Postal Service already has published on social media.
• Don’t comment on anyone else’s opinions about the Postal Service or any topic about which you would not speak at work. Don’t even hit “like.”

• Before you post your personal opinion on anything, ask yourself, “Would I say this at work?” If the answer is “no,” don’t do it.
• Definitely keep your personal business off social media. You don’t need your employees or customers to know that much about you.

More to Life Than Work

By Laurie Butts

As members of the NAPS Auxiliary, we are here to support and help NAPS when and whenever we are needed. We are aware that, at times, members experience days of stress, disrespect, resistance and uncertainty. Through it all, they continue to stand strong and press on for the good of body.

Even so, they, like all of us, need to take time to decompress. Read and ponder the words of English poet Richard Le Gallienne:

I meant to do my work today,
But a brown bird sang in the apple tree,
And a butterfly flitted across the field,
And all the leaves were calling me.

And the wind went sighing over the land,
Tossing the grasses to and fro,
And a rainbow held out its shining hand,
So what could I do but laugh and go?

Keeping these words in mind can make some of those hard days and times easier.
