Who is NAPS?

The National Association of Postal Supervisors (NAPS) was established in 1908 as a management association that represents the U.S. postal system's frontline and workroom floor leadership. Current law (39 USC 1004) provides NAPS the authority to represent virtually all Executive Administrative Schedule (EAS) level postal employees, which includes supervisors, managers and postmasters. We manage mail processing, delivery, and retail and support functions. The NAPS-represented EAS workforce comprises approximately 47,000 postal employees.

NAPS on the Hill

With the exception of spring 2021, when Capitol Hill was restricted due to the COVID-19 pandemic, NAPS has brought more than 500 legislative activists from throughout the nation to Washington to engage with their representatives and senators on legislative issues that impact NAPS members and the U.S. Postal Service. In 2023, NAPS is delighted to share members of 118th Congress our legislative priorities for the years. In addition, NAPS members are eager to continue the dialogue on these issue throughout 2023, whether it be in person, by letter or via digital communications.

NAPS at Home

NAPS members are a vital element to ensure that your constituents receive excellent mail service. Our members are keenly aware of the operational and financial crosscurrents that can make such excellence challenging. Mail security and the safety of postal personnel have emerged as dual threats to the sanctity of mail, as well as the consistency of mail collection and mail delivery. NAPS members are also attuned to the lack of information and community input relating to a new Postal Service initiative to consolidate sorting and delivery operations under one roof. NAPS members strongly believe that confidence in our national postal system is directly related to reliability, speed and accessibility.

NAPS and Postal Approval

As supervisors, managers and postmasters, NAPS members take pride in the high approval rating Americans have awarded the U.S. Postal Service. An October 2022 Gallup Survey reported that the Postal Service is the highest rated federal agency, with 60% rating the job done by the Postal Service either “excellent” or “good.”
