U.S. Postal Service Responds to NAPS Lawsuit

On October 25, 2019, the Postal Service filed its response to NAPS's lawsuit challenging the Postal Service's compensation policies and practices covering postal supervisors and managers. As expected, the Postal Service asked the court to dismiss NAPS's case, primarily on procedural grounds.

NAPS's pay and legal team remains optimistic regarding NAPS's claims, and NAPS will file an opposition to the USPS motion by November 20. At that time, NAPS will post the USPS and NAPS filings on the Forms & Documents section of the NAPS website.
