Fulfilling NAPS Duties in a New Norm

As a result of the COVID-19 pandemic, the term “new norm” has become a way of life and business for the American public. Although the pandemic may have slowed our lives, NAPS business must continue to move forward—cautiously and safely.

A byproduct of this pandemic is new-norm thinking to make our lives more successful and less stressful. What new-norm thinking is necessary for NAPS Headquarters and local and state branches to effectively conduct association business? Here’s the scoop!

NAPS Headquarters started early to answer that question when the Executive Board addressed the potential impact the COVID-19 pandemic could have on our 67th National Convention scheduled for August 2020. To protect the health and safety of NAPS and Auxiliary members, guests and their families, the board voted on May 3 to postpone and reschedule the national convention for Aug. 30 through Sept. 3, 2021. Rescheduling the convention also postponed electing new Executive Board members.

Therefore, in accordance with “Robert’s Rules of Order Newly Revised” and Article VII, Section 1(b), of the NAPS Constitution, Executive Board members will continue to hold office until they or their successors are duly appointed or elected. In that regard, all current board members except one (due to personal reasons) agreed to serve in their incumbent positions until Sept. 3, 2021, when the next Executive Board elections are held.

Until then, per Article VIII, Section 2, of the NAPS Constitution: “It shall be the duty of the Executive Board to carry out the orders of NAPS and conduct all business of NAPS during the interim of conventions.” NAPS business is conducted mostly through Executive Board meetings and numerous conference calls throughout the board’s term, now an extended term.

Specifically, in Article V, Meetings, Section 2, of the NAPS Constitution: “The Executive Board shall meet at least once each year, and more frequently if conditions require. Such meetings shall be held at the call of the President or by petition to the President, signed by at least twelve (12) Executive Board members. A summation of the minutes of Executive Board meetings shall be reported in subsequent issues of The Postal Supervisor.”

Fortunately, in March 2020, an Executive Board meeting was held at our headquarters, The National Association of Postal Supervisors Vincent A. Palladino Building, fulfilling its constitutional requirement to meet once a year. Therefore, the traditional fall board meeting was not required. However, to set an example, NAPS Headquarters decided to fulfill its duties and responsibilities by scheduling a fall board meeting in October, conducted remotely via Zoom.

NAPS Headquarters understands many local and state branches already have taken the initiative to continue with their local NAPS business remotely using meeting platforms such as Zoom. Other branches have yet to embrace this new-norm thinking. However, it is something to consider until COVID-19 is safely suppressed or completely eliminated.

How and where should a branch start to have meetings to fulfill its duties and responsibilities during this pandemic? Because there are over 275 branches with different needs, NAPS Headquarters has not set official policy for how branches should conduct their business or meetings during this pandemic. However, here are some suggestions:

If hosting a remote meeting, a branch should consider options such as Zoom, Microsoft Teams, Go-To-Meetings and more. There may be other types of remote teleconferencing applications a branch may want to research to find the best fit in terms of member access and cost effectiveness.

If not already done, a branch may want to amend
SPAC and You

I marvel at the fact we are almost in November. Although time is moving swiftly this year, it cannot end fast enough. History undoubtedly will view 2020 as one of the worst years in the history of civilization.

At the beginning of 2020, we just had finished another extremely successful year of SPAC contributions and legislative activity. We were heading into our 2020 LTS legislatively and SPAC stronger than we ever had been. For the first time, we had legislation introduced to address our pay rules’ fallacies, as found in 39 U.S. Code §1004, by which supervisory and other managerial organizations abide.

H.R. 6085, the “Postal Supervisors and Managers Fairness Act of 2020,” was introduced by Rep. Gerry Connolly (D-VA), with original co-sponsor Rep. Mike Bost (R-IL), on March 4. This bill signaled a new, focused legislative initiative to address the concerns voiced by many NAPS leaders and members over the years—that is, Title 39 has no teeth.

We carried the enthusiasm for this EAS pay fairness-focused legislation to the Hill; it fueled a record-breaking year for SPAC contributions at LTS. Little did we know we would see our SPAC efforts almost grind to a halt just weeks later. Since the 2020 LTS, every scheduled 2020 NAPS event, including our 2020 National Convention, has been postponed or canceled due to the impact of COVID-19.

These events are vital sources for providing the fuel (money) for our SPAC engine. We are tremendously fortunate that your generous SPAC efforts over the past six years have given us some continuing resources we have been able to put to work to maintain our grassroots efforts in legislation and position NAPS in numerous campaigns for seats in the 2020 election. We are working to increase the number of legislators we help get elected to Congress and move legislation such as H.R. 6085 to the front burner for action in the next session.

I would like to send a special shoutout to the great state of Florida, which did not let COVID-19 stop their quest to lead NAPS in SPAC. Thanks to all of you who responded to our earlier SPAC contribution mail-in campaign in the June Postal Supervisor. This initiative helped secure over $8,900 in SPAC funds.

So, as we approach the close of 2020, please consider sending a SPAC contribution to NAPS Headquarters to help rebuild our legislative war chest. We head into 2021 with our primary focus continuing to be making the necessary changes to 39 U.S. Code §1004 a reality.

In solidarity …

‘What the Hell Is Going on Out There?’

Legends Green Bay Packers Coach Vince Lombardi once yelled to his team during a not particularly good afternoon of traditional Packer football, “What the hell is going on out there?” This was a message to his team that, not only was the coach dissatisfied with their play, he was angry at the level of performance, seeing it as below their capability and talent.

Much the same can be said of my assessment of the current senior leadership of the Postal Service, led by a postmaster general who has taken this essential agency from its traditional roots of service and performance to an organization that has required the intervention of four separate federal judges in order to correct his disastrous policies, take control over some operational decision-making and monitor his actions so as not to undermine the essential nature and purpose of the United States Postal Service.

This not only is unprecedented, it is a blemish on our record as postal employees and a disservice to the men and women who have served this agency since the beginning of our American republic. By the time you read this issue of The Postal Supervisor magazine, voting in the election may be over. But the underlying issues surrounding this entire process deserve not only to be questioned, but to be investigated by Congress in its oversight role.

Perhaps one could say the current PMG made some rookie mistakes, was unaware of the enormous role the Postal Service plays in the lives of Americans or maybe was inexperienced in running such a large, complex organization of over 600,000 employees. And I would say you are correct on all counts. However, what about strong, consistent leadership during a pandemic?

What about understanding the impact that managerial decisions have on the employees? How about reading the United States Constitution before assuming the role of PMG, in particular, Section 8, also known as the “Postal Clause,” that reads, in part, “The Congress shall have the power … to establish Post Offices and Post Roads. …”

Yes, that’s us—the U.S. Postal Service. An agency deemed so essential, it is mentioned in the very founding document that laid out the organization of the newly created United States of America! And in all the ensuing historic years, never has the U.S. Postal Service had to be overseen by a federal district judge(s) out of concern whether it was operating in the best interests of the American public in advance of a presidential election.

These judges issued injunctions not only to stop service and processing reductions, as well as delaying mail and slowing the nation’s delivery network in advance of the presidential elections, but also as a matter of service to the American public. In fact, the federal injunctions required the Postal Service to maintain service levels through the election at a minimum.

So, I must ask senior Postal Service leaders, echoing the words of Coach Lombardi, “What the hell is going on out there?” What is going on at L’Enfant Plaza? Why are the decisions of senior postal leaders being overturned by federal judges? Why are Postal Service processes being monitored by federal judges?

My fellow NAPS members, this is not normal. In fact, I consider it an insult to the generations of postal employees who have preceded us and the legacy of an American institution that dates to colonial times.

As a leader, if my decisions led to an outside entity overturning those decisions based on the sincerity of those decisions, what would that say about my leadership? If I am the leader of an organization that, for the first time in its long history, federal courts have had to monitor the intent of its decisions, then what are the consequences of those actions?

It is time for all of us to hold the PMG and others at L’Enfant Plaza accountable for their actions and for besmirching the grand name of the United States Postal Service. We need answers, especially to the question asked by Coach Lombardi of his team. We must seek answers to that question and look for ways to make sure we never go to this place again.

We are the U.S. Postal Service. We deserve better.
its constitution and bylaws to also incorporate making a virtual or hybrid (in-person and virtual concurrently) meeting an “official” meeting. Providing an option to attend virtually is a great way for branches to keep members active and reactivate less-active members.

Members can receive meeting credit for attending virtually. Also, their virtual attendance can count toward a meeting quorum to ensure the branch has an official meeting and fulfills its NAPS duties and responsibilities.

If hosting a virtual meeting, seek a member who understands this technology, such as Zoom, to help administer and coordinate the invitation, chat box, screen-sharing and “mute” button to avoid background noise and coordinate speakers and debate. Basically, the branch president conducts the meeting over video rather than in person and follows its regular meeting agenda. A good idea is for the branch president to first host a virtual executive board meeting to get a better feel for the larger branch virtual meeting.

Given advance notice, resident officers and respective NAPS area and regional vice presidents also could attend branch and state executive board virtual meetings. It would be nice to physically attend a branch meeting to address members’ concerns and enjoy NAPS fellowship. But until the pandemic is tamed, a virtual meeting is a way to safely stay connected and involved.

Some branches may be comfortable holding in-person branch meetings, despite the pandemic still being present. Therefore, NAPS highly encourages branches to take measures to protect attendees, including their families, from contracting and/or spreading COVID-19. Following are some suggestions for in-person branch meetings:

Follow the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) guidelines for social distancing by having seats at least six feet apart, including chairs at the table where branch officers sit. Unless you are sure the facility or room where the branch is hosting its meeting already has done so, have one designated person wear gloves and a mask to wipe down or spray meeting seats and/or tables with CDC-recommended sanitizers/disinfectants before the start of the meeting.

Require all meeting attendees to wear masks. Provide hand sanitizer and have the branch secretary take verbal attendance instead of having members gathering at a table to register their presence.

If providing food during the meeting, prepare in advance lunch-type snack bags filled with prepackaged chips, cookies, bottled water, soda, candy bars, handwipes, napkins, etc. Place the snack packs on the socially distanced chairs before the start of the meeting. Finally, in addition to hosting an in-person branch meeting, also provide members the option to attend remotely (hybrid), especially if they have a high-risk condition.

I encourage NAPS members to keep up their faith and spirits; this COVID-19 pandemic will pass. When it does, NAPS and its members can be thankful they rose to the challenge with greater hope, more resilience, a smarter way to live and by conducting NAPS business with new thinking.

Speaking of being thankful, as we celebrate Thanksgiving this November, I want to thank the men and women of our armed forces, our military veterans and all essential workers for protecting and serving our great country. I send my sincerest thanks to NAPS branch officers and our Auxiliary for all they do for NAPS.

To keep up your spirits, my November ice-cream-flavor-of-the-month recommendation is Tillamook’s pumpkin cookie butter.

APS is disappointed that top leaders at the U.S. Postal Service, in affidavits filed in federal court on Sept. 11, 2020, collectively referred to local USPS supervisors and managers as a reason for the unsuccessful implementation of operational changes that resulted in the delay of mail across the country.

In the affidavits, USPS officials referred to pandemic-related decisions being made by less-experienced supervisors and inexperienced acting supervisors, “ineffective” management in transportation services and local management occasionally exercising “poor judgment” regarding the dispatch of mail as factors contributing to delays in mail delivery. Such references give the general public and media the inaccurate perception that postal supervisors and managers caused the recent delays in mail service. This is not true.

Blaming hard-working, front-line postal supervisors and managers does nothing to improve postal operations or service to the American public. Rather, it hurts the morale of managerial personnel who deserve clear communication of postal policies and instructions by top USPS officials, together with proper training, coaching, mentoring and staffing.

In response to media reports interpreting the affidavits as blaming local supervisors and managers for delivery delays, NAPS Headquarters considers any attempt to blame Postal Service supervisory and managerial employees without addressing the root causes of recent mail delays as not a sign of responsible leadership. Supervisors, managers and postmasters have followed USPS policies and directives.

The recent challenges of moving and delivering America’s mail during the COVID-19 pandemic have been daunting. Postal employees deserve a “thank you” from the Postmaster General, nothing less.
Removal of Mail Processing Machines and Equipment, Changes to Annual Leave Exchange and Annual Leave Carryover Among Items Discussed

President Brian Wagner, Executive Vice President Ivan D. Butts and Executive Board Chair Tim Ford attended the Aug. 26 consultative meeting via Zoom. Representing the Postal Service were Bruce Nicholson and James Timmins, Labor Relations Policy Administration; Robert Neal, manager, Delivery Operations; Dr. Gun Udomsawat, manager, P&DC Operations; and Earl Randel, Operations specialist.

Agenda Item #1
NAPS Executive Board members have made NAPS Headquarters aware the USPS currently is removing mail processing machines and equipment from postal facilities and/or operations. Some machines and equipment are being physically removed from postal facilities. Others are being covered with tarps in a facility to ensure non-use. Does the USPS expect a reduction of EAS positions as a result of the reduction of postal machines and equipment in postal facilities? If yes:
• Will the USPS initiate a reduction-in-force (RIF) as a result of the reduction in postal machines and equipment?
• When does the USPS expect the impacts to occur?
• How many EAS positions will be impacted by:
  —EAS job title?
  —postal facility?
  —district office?
  —area office?
Supervisory positions are not predicated on the number of machines, but on the number of bargaining-unit employees in a facility through staffing ratios. There are no planned exceeding events outside of the section due to the machine reductions/relocations and, therefore, no intent to reduce EAS positions.

There may be situations where bargaining-unit positions increase/decrease on different tours in the facility, which may trigger reassignment of a supervisor to another tour in a facility. But this wouldn’t trigger a RIF.

The USPS makes annual adjustments to relocate, remove, take out of service (tarp) or add postal equipment throughout USPS operations due to mail volume changes. Equipment use is based on letter, flat and package volume workload. As a result of COVID-19, mail volume has decreased by approximately 20%.

NAPS asked why the USPS scrapped postal equipment, such as DBCS and BCS machines, rather than sell them to potential mailing houses or workshare companies.

The respective operation equipment had been fully depreciated and had no value.

Agenda Item #2
Due to the COVID-19 pandemic, many EAS employees are unable to use annual leave due to staffing shortages and being COVID-19 quarantined. While EAS employees are off work due to contracting COVID-19, other EAS employees are having their annual leave canceled due to being essential workers or unable to travel for vacation due to COVID-19 travel restrictions and other factors.

Based on the impact of COVID-19 on employees taking annual leave, NAPS Headquarters has received inquiries from members with concerns that, due to being unable to take annual leave in 2020, they will accumulate leave above the maximum USPS carryover amount. Therefore, without modification to the USPS annual leave carryover policy, many EAS employees will lose earned annual leave at the end of the year.

In order to protect EAS employees from losing earned annual leave because of circumstances outside their control, NAPS asked the Postal...

Service to implement two modifications to the USPS annual leave policy for calendar year 2020 only:
1. Increase the annual leave carryover maximum amount by an additional 200 hours.
2. Allow EAS employees to sell back up to an additional 128 hours, or a total of 256 annual leave hours, before the end of 2020.
3. If options 1 or 2 do not satisfy the employee’s situation from forfeiting earned annual leave in 2020, allow the employee to sell back earned annual leave in 2020, as well as carry over annual leave above the new temporary maximum.

This item was provided to Vice President of Labor Relations Doug Tulino for consideration outside the pay consultation process. Changes to the annual leave exchange and annual leave carryover were modified on Sept. 3.

Agenda Item #3
AMS EAS employees in the field are concerned with the speed of the Sortation Equipment Reconciliation (SER) process to convert over 200,000 city routes to one six-shelf case by Oct 2, 2020. NAPS asked to be briefed on the lack of OIEs to design the CAD drawings for the various offices. Many of these positions have been vacant for over a year.

NAPS also asked to be briefed on what steps have taken place to address the lack of notification to field Maintenance units that have to modify cases to accommodate this change. AMS EAS employees are not supposed to perform maintenance in the AMS database; that is a craft function.

Because carrier input is part of the process, COVID-19 and liberal-leave policies may make this difficult to achieve in such a short timeframe, as well as COVID-19 and liberal-leave policies among craft employees in AMS offices.

NAPS further asked if this applies to rural routes, as well. Are units required to send edit books to AMS with these changes, which would overwhelm most AMS offices at district offices in this short timeframe?

The SER only is a component of a greater initiative, Delivery Unit Network Optimization. This component has been placed on hold with an indefinite date it will resume. The ultimate result of this initiative is space-saving, which helps minimize challenges created by increases in parcel volumes. CAD or hand drawings of the floor layout are acceptable. This initiative currently applies to city routes.

As additional NAPS information, due to mail volume declines, the intent of SER is to reduce city carrier casing equipment into one piece of equipment with six shelves. The USPS estimates 75% to 80% of city delivery routes can be reduced to one piece of casing equipment, as it may not be capable to have all city routes converted down to one piece of casing equipment. The USPS does not see an issue of AMS being able to accommodate the workload to convert city-carryer cases equipment labels to one piece of equipment with six shelves.

Agenda Item #4
NAPS has been notified that the Office of Personnel Management issued an interim rule that would allow some federal employees to carry more than 30 days of annual leave into 2021. NAPS requested this rule be applied to USPS employees who, as essential personnel, have been impacted by COVID-19.

This item was provided to Vice President of Labor Relations Doug Tulino for consideration outside the pay consultation process. Changes to the annual leave exchange and annual leave carryover were modified on Sept. 3.

USPS Extends Additional Pay for EAS Field Managers to Dec. 31, 2020

Based on conversations between NAPS and USPS Labor Relations Policy Administration, the agency has extended the temporarily modified pay provisions for specific field FLSA-exempt managers to Dec. 31. The policy was due to expire Sept. 25.

Employees in these positions (see July Postal Supervisor, p. 8) are eligible for EAS additional pay if authorized to work over 8.5 hours on a scheduled day or any hours on a nonscheduled day due to an increase in absences related to COVID-19 and the additional hours are spent directly supervising bargaining-unit employees.

NAPS offers its sympathies to former Central Gulf Area Vice President Cornel Rowel Sr. whose brother, Anthony, died Sept. 24. Condolences may be sent to the family at 808 N. Sabine Dr., Baton Rouge, LA 70810-2471.

Eastern Region Cabinet Meeting Postponed

Eastern Region Vice President Richard Green Jr. announced the 2021 Eastern Region Cabinet meeting, scheduled for Jan. 14-17, has been postponed indefinitely due to COVID-19. Updates will be provided when available.

New York Area Vice President Jimmy Warden (standing) discussed membership, SWCs, NPA and NAPS’ pending appeal on its lawsuit against the Postal Service. NAPS’ DDF provider Al Lum (sitting, top left) discussed changes regarding debt collections.
Long Island, NY, Branch 202 held its membership meeting in late September at The Carltun, a luxurious venue in Eisenhower Park, East Meadow, NY. Branch 202 was honored to have Lieutenant Colonel Jackie Gordon attend. She is the Democratic nominee for New York Congressional District 2—a seat that will be vacated by the retirement of NAPS friend Rep. Peter King (R). Gordon addressed NAPS members, assuring them she will fight for Long Island and the Postal Service.

Branch 202 presents awards to members nominated by their peers for NAPS Outstanding Supervisor, Outstanding Postmaster and Lifetime Achievement. Each nomination includes a $10 contribution to SPAC.

Despite the inability to meet in person with legislators and political candidates due to COVID-19, NAPS’ Legislative Team continues to engage via Zoom. In the many meetings, NAPS Executive Vice President Ivan D. Butts and Director of Legislative & Political Affairs Bob Levi thanked lawmakers for their support of H.R. 8015, the “Delivering for America Act,” as well as sought support for H.R. 6085, the “Postal Supervisors and Managers Fairness Act of 2020,” and H.R. 597, the “Postal Employee Appeal Rights Amendment Act.”

Also discussed was the impact on mail delivery due to the reduction of machinery and how these delays impact lawmakers’ constituents in their districts, as well as the economic impact of USPS operations. In discussions with congressional candidates, the NAPS Legislative Team discussed congressional polling data, postal issues—including vote-by-mail efforts—and reviewed responses to NAPS’ candidate questionnaires.
Sen. Patrick Leahy (D-VT) (bottom row, right). Also participating in the meeting were Vermont NAPS members Dawn Rossiter, postmaster, White River Junction Post Office; Robert Sanderson, plant manager, Essex Junction P&DC; Jerome Reem Jr., supervisor, Burlington Post Office; Maria Mable, Atlantic Area Finance, Barre; and Liane Spaulding, supervisor, Montpelier.

From tornadoes to floods and winter storms, many parts of the nation are experiencing extreme weather. The Postal Service is reminding employees they can turn to the Postal Employees Relief Fund (PERF). The fund helps postal employees and retirees whose homes were significantly damaged by natural disasters or house fires.

PERF is not an emergency relief or immediate needs replacement agency, such as the Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA) or the Red Cross or insurance companies that are paid to replace property. Rather, PERF (part of the Combined Federal Campaign) provides relief grants to help qualifying individuals get re-established after a loss, based on an application process.

You may make a contribution via personal check (a receipt for your tax-deductible donation will be mailed to you). Send your check to: PERF, PO Box 41220, Fredericksburg, VA 22404-1220.
You can shovel all the snow, but you can’t stop winter from coming. In an Oct. 2, federal-court-demanded filing, the Postal Service provided data to the U.S. District Court for the Southern District. The 54-page document indicated, in part, that Postmaster General Louis DeJoy’s mid-August about-face on implementation of June’s postal operational changes failed to repair the already inflicted damage.

In fact, according to the required filing, national on-time performance for First-Class Mail slipped to 84.23% for the week ending Sept. 24. For reference, First-Class on-time delivery was 92.3% the week of May 23 (during the pandemic).

As NAPS members know, the reliability and timeliness of our nation’s most cherished government service have been challenged and become a partisan piñata. These spiteful blows have threatened the integrity of absentee balloting and the Postal Service itself.

Despite the political broadside, a nationwide survey conducted during the last week of August by Ipsos Polling, The Washington Post and the University of Maryland Center for Democracy and Civic Engagement found that 72% of American voters viewed the Postal Service favorably. However, more than half noted a decline of on-time delivery as compared to the previous year. It’s good to point out the poll reported two-thirds of Americans believe the USPS should be run as a “public service,” even if it costs the government money.

By the time you receive this issue, we may or may not know the final tally for the presidential and congressional elections. No matter the outcome, we have our work cut out for us in the upcoming months. It will fall on postal employees, in collaboration with our elected allies, to help restore the quality mail service to which Americans are entitled.

In mid-September, four different U.S. district courts considered the operational pronouncements made by the Postal Service’s senior leadership that coincided with new Postmaster General Louis DeJoy assuming the helm. Multiple states, cities, public-interest groups, voters and citizen mailers challenged those decisions in court; specifically, recent operational changes and the removal of more than 700 high-speed mail processing machines.

The federal courts were in the states of Washington, New York and Pennsylvania, as well as the District of Columbia. All four courts ruled against Postal Service leadership, recognizing the crucial role the agency has played in the administration of the 2020 election. All four courts refused to accept the Postal Service’s defense that there was no change in postal policy. And all four rejected the Postal Service’s attempt to shift blame to local management.

First-issued Washington state’s ruling was distinct in that it raised the possibility the USPS’ decisions may have been politically motivated. The presiding judge referenced how the president’s anti-postal and anti-absentee-ballot tweets and statements may have influenced leadership decisions.

The judge also observed that 72% of the decommissioned mail processing machines were in counties lost by President Trump in 2016. Finally, the ruling identified the impact the postal changes have had on governmental operations conducted through the mail, as well as the transit of prescription medication through the mail.

The New York court raised serious constitutional concerns about the Postal Service’s operational changes. Specifically, the judge suggested the changes may have violated the First Amendment’s guarantee to freedom of speech and the Fifth Amendment’s assurance of equal protection under the law. Because voting is a recognized form of speech, the USPS’ actions could impair a citizen’s ability to vote by mail. The discriminatory impact of the postal changes on different classes of citizens could deny them voting protections extended to other citizens.

As a result of the potential for serious constitutional infringement, the New York Court ordered the Postal Service to provide detailed, weekly performance reports to the court, mandating that the Postal Service submit a plan for on-time delivery at 93.88%. The 84.23% on-time performance referenced in the second paragraph of this column is extracted from the Oct. 2 report.

The Pennsylvania court, in its ruling, required the same performance data as mandated in the New York court ruling. However, probably the most far-reaching directive for future postal operations rests in the rulings of the Pennsylvania and District of Columbia courts. Both federal courts ruled the Postal Service should have followed the law and submitted its operational changes and removal of mail processing equipment to the Postal Regulatory Commission (PRC) for an “advisory opinion” before implementing those changes.

The proposed changes would have been open for public comment through an administrative hearing, after which the PRC would have issued an advisory opinion relating to the proposed changes. As a consequence of the Pennsylvania and New York rulings, it is highly likely that, should the Postal Service seek to implement the proposed changes after the election or propose any further changes approaching the magnitude of those implemented in June, the agency would first have to seek an advisory opinion from the PRC.

The lesson to be learned over the past few months is the Postal Service continues to be valued by the American public and is widely recognized as essential to governmental functioning. Postal leadership needs to take this into account as it governs the agency and steers its operations toward vitality. Otherwise, it will be a long winter.

Resilience
By Marsha Danzy

When the clock struck midnight on Wednesday, Jan. 1, 2020, no one could have anticipated all the challenges we would confront in the new year. The COVID-19 pandemic, protests and civil unrest, elections, voting and a changing of the guard at USPS Headquarters are just a partial list. It has been an overwhelming set of circumstances in which we found ourselves and continue to navigate.

In spite of all these challenges, USPS employees—craft and managers—have shown great resilience in dealing with all the issues at hand. As we enter peak season, along with the presidential election, even more time will be focused on providing the best service to the American public.

With everything many Americans have endured this year—layoffs, illness or loss of loved ones—the Postal Service offers security to the public in knowing we always will be available to deliver, whether it’s essential items, a get-well card or just being available to have a conversation with a senior who may be homebound.

Let’s do what we do every day: Provide great service to the American public.

PMG, USPS Executives Play the Blame Game
By Dioenis D. Perez

Friday, Sept. 11, 2020, a sacred day in our nation’s history, was tarnished by top management at the USPS. As revealed in court documents, management deflected blame for recent high-profile mail delays by alleging “poor judgment” by local supervisors and “workforce performance” issues.

Wasn’t it enough that PMG Louis DeJoy’s testimony before Congress in August was embarrassing for all of us? Now this article comes out and blames hard-working EAS employees for delaying the mail, which is the furthest thing from the truth. I’m appalled by this claim, knowing full well we do not want to delay any mail, at any cost.

It seems the PMG takes no responsibility for anything, even when his team of executives is making excuses by blaming EAS employees for mail delays. But there is no mention of the results of timely trips leaving closeout/DOV mail behind in the afternoon, per the PMG’s policy change in July!

What strikes me as odd is the new PMG enters service during prime vacation time, in addition to a pandemic. Associate offices and mail plants—from areas to districts, local management to the craft—understand we normally are short-staffed in prime vacation time. Now, include a pandemic.

I don’t have to spell it out any further; we all understand what this means. We simply do not have the staffing, even with paying out huge sums of money to do everything timely. Of course, in some associate offices, carriers will be running late if we are to deliver the mail to every address.

Will carriers meet truck schedules? No. Anyone who’s been in the USPS for more than a few years understands this—at every level. We know in advance during prime vacation time this is not always possible, especially if offices have a severe lack of complement.

How did we overcome this previously? We never worked during a pandemic, but, during prime vacation time, we were able to hold trucks for 15 minutes or, worst case, call for another truck later. This avoided mail sitting overnight in our buildings and becoming delayed by one to three days, as it is now.

Didn’t anyone in a USPS executive position take the time or, perhaps, have the courage to explain this to the new PMG? Also, while understanding we are just days away from the most important election in our lives.

Search for the Silver Lining

Reflecting back over the years on all the good times we had at NAPS conventions—where we embraced old friends and met new ones—brings feelings of warmth and pleasure that flood one’s soul. Now, we are faced with a dark cloud called COVID-19. The worldwide pandemic has forced us to experience many changes put into existence for our health and well-being. We must limit our exposure to friends, family and others—changing the way we normally live our lives.

Here’s the question: Will we be able to meet and convene with our fellow NAPS associates next year or have to wait until the following year? Not only does the worldwide pandemic cause anxiety about uncertainties with NAPS conventions, it touches many other areas of our everyday lives.

It affects our jobs, worship services, the way we see our doctors, organizational meetings, businesses; even the education system has been greatly affected. With schools having to close their doors, children have experienced the anxiety of being unable to see their teachers and schoolmates; their socialization skills were put on hold.

Students went to school the day before the shutdown where they interacted with each other, openly talked and played together. They were completely oblivious to the fact that soon they would not see each other again in person for months. School as they knew it would end and a newly adapted school protocol would start in the fall. Many students still are not physically going to school.

Grandparents have been separated from children and grandchildren. Medical workers have been separated from their families. Jobs were lost, churches closed their doors and businesses closed—some permanently.

Through all the stress and bad situations, we still must press on to a new adaptation, a new way of functioning and a new normal. As children prepare to return to school, we teach them their new normal. This includes what I call the “20-second healthcare hero’s handwashing technique” and how to wear a mask and keep it on without touching it. They also need to be taught to wear their masks without sharing. We need to prevent the scenario where little Johnny went to school wearing a Spiderman mask and returned home wearing a Superman mask.

The pandemic truly is a dark cloud, but it’s not without a silver lining. Being at home affords wonderful time to be with family that otherwise would not have been possible. For the first time in many families, mom and dad are adapting to tag-teaming home-school teaching. This gives parents lifetime bragging rights in having an active part in their children’s education.

There are so many parent-child memories to be made, such as videos and photos that can be shared with grandparents; necessity is the mother of invention. There can be home sewing classes and home cooking classes. And don’t forget about sports classes: baseball, football, basketball and more. Mom and dad each can choose their specialty.

There are movie nights and backyard cookouts and campouts. So, get out those sleeping bags and get the tent ready. The events are fun, the pictures are priceless and the memories are precious.

There are so many adventures awaiting as we find our way to the future; buckle up and hold on tight! One day, the COVID-19 pandemic will become history. But, until then, mask up, stay safe and be blessed.
